Risks of Investing in Leuthold Funds

Asset Allocation Risk: A Fund may favor an asset category or investment strategy that performs poorly to other asset categories and investment strategies for short or long periods of time. Foreign and Emerging Markets Securities Risk: Investments in securities and instruments traded in developing- or emerging markets, or that provide exposure to such securities, can involve additional risks relating to political, economic, or regulatory conditions not associated with investment in U.S. securities and instruments. Market Risks: Common stocks are susceptible to general stock market fluctuations and to volatile increases and decreases in value as market confidence and perceptions of their issuers change. Fixed Income Securities Risk: Issuers of bonds may not be able to make interest or principal payments, or may suffer adverse changes in financial conditions that could lower their credit quality. Quantitative Investment Approach Risk: Funds utilize a quantitative investment approach. There may be market conditions where the quantitative investment approach performs poorly. Managed Futures Strategy/Commodities Risk: Investments in managed futures programs or commodities may subject an Underlying Investment to greater volatility than investments in traditional securities. Sector Risk: The Funds' investing approach may dictate an emphasis on certain sectors, industries, or sub-sectors of the market. Funds may invest more heavily in one sector, industry, or sub-sector; or may lack exposure to one or more sectors, which may adversely affect performance.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

The Leuthold Core ETF is structured as a fund-of-funds and is subject to the same risks as the funds it holds. Investors will incur the expenses of the Fund in addition to fees of the underlying funds in the portfolio.

Investments in foreign securities may involve risks such as social and political instability, market illiquidity, exchange-rate fluctuations, a high level of volatility, and limited regulation. Investing in emerging markets involves different and greater risks, as these countries are substantially smaller, less liquid, and more volatile than securities markets in more developed markets.

The Fund uses short sales which involve substantial risk. The loss on a short sale is, in principle, unlimited since there is no upward limit on the price of a shorted asset.

The Fund may invest in Underlying Investments that principally invest in the commodities markets through investment in managed futures programs. Such investments may subject an Underlying Investment to greater volatility than investments in traditional securities.

The Fund may invest in Underlying Investments that primarily invest in high-yield securities (also known as "junk bonds"). Although high-yield securities generally pay higher rates of interest than investment grade bonds, high-yield securities are speculative, high-risk investments that may cause income and principal losses for such Underlying Investments and, consequently, negatively affect the value of the Fund's investment in such Underlying Investments.

As with all ETFs, Fund shares may be bought and sold in the secondary market at market prices. The market price normally should approximate the Fund's net asset value per share (NAV), but the market price sometimes may be higher or lower than the NAV.

The S&P 500 Index is an unmanaged index of 500 common stocks primarily traded on the New York Stock Exchange, weighted by market capitalization. Index performance includes the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains.

Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Index provides a broad-based measure of global, investment grade fixed-rate debt markets.

It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Glossary of Terms

Price to Earnings (P/E) Ratio: Current share price of a stock divided by its earnings per share (EPS).

Price to Book (P/B) Ratio: A ratio used to compare a stock's market value to its book value. It is calculated by dividing the current price of the stock by the latest quarter's book value per share. Also known as price-equity ratio.

Price to Sales (P/S) Ratio: A ratio calculated by dividing a stock's current price by its sales per share over the trailing 12 month period.

Price to Cash Flow (P/CF) Ratio: A measure of the market's expectation of future financial health. Because this measure deals with cash flow, the effects of depreciation and other non-cash factors are removed. Like the P/E ratio, this provides an indication of relative value.

Duration: A gauge of the sensitivity of the price (the value of principal) of a fixed-income investment to a change in interest rates. Duration is expressed as several years. Rising interest rates mean falling bond prices, while declining interest rates result in rising bond prices.

Credit Quality (Rating): An assessment of the credit worthiness of individuals and corporations. It is based on the history of borrowing and repayment, as well as the availability of assets and the extent of liabilities.

²The Fund's investment adviser has contractually agreed to waive its advisory fee to the extent necessary to insure that Net Expenses (excluding Acquired Fund Fees and Expenses) do not exceed 0.65% of the average daily net assets of the Fund.
